ARGUMENT OF LAWYER LEVY

WILL ACQUIT HER.

During the long argument Miss Palterson faced the jury unflinchingly. The court room was crowded, most of the attendants being women who struggled to get a look at the defendant. At one time during the afternoom the judge was compelled to stop Mr. Levy while court officers expelled from the room some women who persisted in discussing the case in audible lones.

Mr. Levy reviewed all the testimony fin detail and declared not a word had been introduced which showed any purpose on the part of Miss Patterson or her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. Levy scouted the idea that a girl would be able to make such an assault to neatrance at the field of a trained at hete like Young. He also ridiculed the idea that Miss Patterson should have chosen a crowded public street as a place for nurder when she had so many opportunities to attack Young where there would have been little danger of detection.

Motorman N. C. Rawson threw on the brakes but the car was moving at a high rate of speed and Loertsher was firely emphasized by Mr. Levy, who contended that the powder stains on Young's fingers proved that he had shot himself.

"I must call your attention to the pawn tickets by which Mr. Rand sought to delude you with the idea that they were dated June 3, when, as a matter of faet, they bore date of October. I had them put in evidence so as to show you as an object lesson the unfair tactics resorted to by the prosecutor. He had also told you about the $55,000 which he. cutor. He had also told you about the $50,000, which he says was lavished by Young on the defendant, when he knew the case was barren of evidence of any money excepting $800." money excepting $800."

Mr. Levy declared that the prosecution had failed to prove that J. Morgan Smith bought the pistol and also had failed to prove a motive for the deed.

Young Was the Master.

Mr. Levy argued that Nan Patterson was a victim of her own weakness and the blandishments of Caesar Young, he said, but before that she had been true to her husband and she was as loyal to Young as if she had truly been his wife. Young was the master; she the weakling. He would have the jury not accept the letter written to Leslie Coggins as showing that she Leslie Coggins as showing that she was disloyal to Young. The latter was not dated and the

They took the treatment faithfully, only to find when it was left off, the disease returned with more power, combined with the awful effects of these minerals, such as mercurial rheumatism, necrosis of the bones, salivation, inflammation of the stomach and bowels, etc. When the virus of Contagious Blood Poison enters the blood it quickly contaminates every drop of that vital fluid, and every muscle, nerve, tissue and bone becomes affected, and soon the foul symptoms of sore mouth and throat, copper-colored blotches, falling hair and eyebrows, swollen glands, sores etc., make their appearance. Mercury and Potash can only cover up these evidences for awhile; they cannot cure the disease. S.
